

Our company places very great importance on the preparation of each event's budget. A basic financial model is created already during our first talks with client. We always plan the expenses part of the event only after we do a thorough analysis of the attainable income coming from registration fees, an exhibition, sponsoring, etc.

A final budget is formed after intensive meetings with our client and all of our suppliers - the final budget made by our company always represents a solid foundation for a successful event. Even in case of any unforeseen problems, we have effective measures in store that would prevent a potential unbalance of the event's budget.

Our primary goal is to satisfy the client and participants of the event. We are aware of the fact that a sensitive approach to the budget area has extreme impact on achieving this goal.
